

Bausch + Lomb Launches Soothe® Xtra Protection Preservative Free Lubricant Eye Drops

June 14, 2018

Now Available at Major U.S. Retailers

LAVAL, Quebec, June 14, 2018 /PRNewswire/ -- Bausch + Lomb, a leading global eye health company and wholly owned subsidiary of Valeant Pharmaceuticals International (NYSE/TSX: VRX), today announced the introduction of Soothe® Xtra Protection (XP) Preservative Free lubricant eye drops, expanding its portfolio of eye health products to meet the growing demand of dry eye symptom relief without the use of preservatives. One of the most common eye conditions in the U.S., dry eye affects more than 140 million Americans,¹ many of whom report sensitivity to preservatives in eye drops.

"Soothe® XP Preservative Free provides a new eye drop option for the increasing number of people suffering from dry eye symptoms who are looking for a preservative-free formula," said Joseph Gordon, president, Consumer Healthcare and Vision Care, Bausch + Lomb. "We are committed to delivering advancements that directly address the needs of consumers and building upon the established benefits of Soothe® XP."

Up to 86% of dry eye cases are caused by Meibomian Gland Dysfunction (MGD),² a condition that compromises the lipid layer in the eye and affects the eye's ability to produce oils that coat natural tears. Only Soothe XP eye drops use a unique combination of Restoryl® mineral oils as active ingredients, which work to restore the lipid layer, seal in moisture, and protect against further irritation.

"Many patients who take eye drops to alleviate their dry eye symptoms may not be addressing a major cause of their condition, which can result in continued discomfort," said Paul Karpecki, O.D., FAAO, director of Corneal Services at Kentucky Eye Institute. "Soothe® XP helps restore the essential lipid layer of the eye, helping to address the main cause of dry eye. Now, with the preservative free Soothe® XP formula, patients who suffer from chronic dry eye and frequently use moisturizing eye drops have a new option to help relieve their dry eye symptoms."

Soothe® XP Preservative Free eye drops will be available at major retailers nationwide, including Walmart, Target, Walgreens, Rite Aid and Meijer, by the end of June, and have a suggested retail price of $13.99.
